Dear Colleagues,

Your continued guidance for students and their families amidst the backdrop of the pandemic has been enormously helpful.

Our test optional policy remains intact through applicants to the Harvard College Class of 2030. The past admissions cycle – for the Class of 2026 – was the second cycle that students have been able to apply to Harvard without submitting standardized testing, as many students continued to have limited access to testing sites or time to prepare for tests due to COVID-19. Consistent with Harvard’s whole-person admissions process, standardized tests are just one factor among many considered. Students who do not submit standardized test scores will not be disadvantaged in their application process.

Harvard College remains committed to our revolutionary financial aid program which provides need-based assistance to all Harvard undergraduates regardless of their citizenship status. This spring, the University has announced a significant expansion of the Harvard Financial Aid Initiative (HFAI) for low- and middle-income families. Beginning this fall, the cost to attend Harvard College, which includes tuition, room, board, and all fees, will be free for families with annual incomes below $75,000. This is an increase from the $65,000 annual income threshold in previous years.

Campus was buzzing with excitement as we welcomed admitted students to campus for Visitas in April after a two-year hiatus. We are able to return to in-person tours and information sessions this Spring and Summer. We will continue to offer online information sessions and a virtual tour for those who cannot travel to campus.

Thank you for all you do to support students. We wish you a relaxing summer and will look forward to working with you in the fall.

Sincerely,

William R. Fitzsimmons

Dean of Admissions & Financial Aid

ADMISSIONS AND FINANCIAL AID

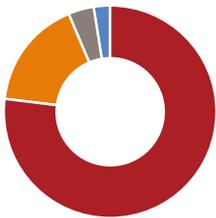

ADMISSIONS: WHAT ARE WE LOOKING FOR?

Some applicants demonstrate extraordinary promise in academic or research endeavors. Some show uncommon talent in other areas, such as leadership, performing arts, or athletics. Most of our students combine the best of both scholastic and extracurricular achievement. Personal qualities—integrity, maturity, strength of character, and concern for others—also play an important part in our evaluations.

- Student Term-Time Work: $2,700
- Student Asset Contribution: $250

Our aid is entirely need-based, and grant eligibility is determined in the same manner for all admitted students regardless of nationality or citizenship status.

FINANCIAL AID: REMOVING ECONOMIC BARRIERS

Applying for financial aid does not jeopardize any student's chance for admission, including international applicants. Indeed, the Admissions Committee may respond favorably to evidence that a candidate has overcome significant obstacles, financial or otherwise. All of Harvard's financial aid is awarded on the basis of demonstrated financial need—there are no academic, athletic, or merit-based awards. Harvard meets the demonstrated need of every student for all four years.

Our financial aid program requires no contribution from Harvard families with annual incomes below $75,000; asks no more than 10 percent of income for those with incomes up to $150,000; and expects proportionally more from families with incomes more than $150,000. Families at all income levels who have significant assets are asked to pay more than those without. Our financial aid officers work closely with families to ensure that Harvard is accessible to all admitted students. We do not require students to take out loans, although they are asked to cover their personal expenses through term-time work.

APPLICATION

For undergraduate study, students apply to Harvard College as a whole. While applicants can indicate an interest in a particular academic area, they do not apply to a specific School or department. Harvard students declare their concentration (field of study) at the end of their third semester.

Students may submit additional materials, such as art, music, or research, using the instructions in their Applicant Portal.
