

You can afford Harvard.

From the minute you decide to apply to Harvard to the minute you graduate, we are here to financially support you. If the application fee isn't feasible for you, you can apply for free.

Just select a waiver when you complete your application online. And if you are admitted, we will make sure you have all the aid you need to attend and to thrive. All financial aid is need-based and provided for all four years.

Here are the facts.

>25% of our students' families pay nothing for their children to attend Harvard.

100% of our students can graduate debt-free without taking out loans.

Financial aid is a personal process. We take into account the full picture of your family's finances—anything that might affect your need—when determining financial aid.

Still, we know it can be helpful to see some actual numbers, so we've created this chart:

We can help.

Check out our net price calculator for an estimate of your family's financial aid package:
college.harvard.edu/npc

(también en español)

Want to hear our students' perspective on Harvard's financial aid? Reach out to hfai@fas.harvard.edu to start the conversation with a current student receiving aid from Harvard.

Did you know? Harvard's financial aid extends beyond providing for traditional tuition, housing, and food. It can also cover the cost of a winter coat, study abroad, and much more.

Want to speak with a first-generation college student at Harvard? Reach out to firstgen@fas.harvard.edu to start the conversation with a current student.